Manufacturing Past and Present

The Patricks Group has over 130 years of manufacturing experience in the metal, print and graphics art industry.

One of the earliest names in badge making in Australia is that of Patricks Badges Pty Limited, a firm with its heritage since 1870.

Patrick's developed badges for charity fund raising promotions and was a key figure in the fund raising effort for the First World War. These badges helped raise more than $50 million.

Badges again played their part during the Second World War featuring figures of Winston Churchill, General de Gaulle, Dwight D. Eisenhower and Joseph Stalin, together with figures of Royalty, Red Cross, Legacy Unions and service organizations.

The war effort was a display of unity and badges were a part of the bond. Quality metal badges, made of Australian minerals including copper, aluminium, zinc, brass, bronze, silver and gold, have been produced over the years, many art forms in themselves, for individuals, businesses, clubs and organizations.

Over the years Patricks expanded into all forms of promotional products and printed product. The Patricks Group soon found that its expertise was in developing special products to suit different applications thus evolving the Customer Product Creation and Merchandising Division.

In 1993, at the 10 National Print Awards, Patricks won the prestigious Gold Award for Specialty Printing at the National Australian Print Awards in Melbourne. Patricks was the first to develop and perfect pad printing in Australia. At the 11 National Print Awards Patricks Promotional Products was awarded another prestigious award for the printing of Metal Badges.

In 2003 PPAI (Promotional Products Association International) of the U.S.A had their Centenary. The Centennial Committee officially congratulated Patricks for:

“ACHIEVING MORE THAN 130 YEARS OF QUALITY PRODUCTS AND SERVICES TO THE PROMOTIONAL PRODUCTS INDUSTRY.”

The Research

Patrick's ensures it uses contemporary research into the effectiveness of its marketing solutions. For instance, our use of promotional products in direct marketing is highly effective in many applications proven through quantified research.

Direct Mail

- Using a Promotional Product increases response by 50%
- Using a Promotional Product as an incentive generates 400% more responses than a sales letter alone
- When used as an incentive to respond reduces the cost per response by two thirds (Study by Silver Marketing Group)

Business Gifts

- 22% more referrals were given to sales people who gave promotional gifts to their clients compared to sales people who gave nothing (Baylor University)
- 39% of persons who received promotional products could recall the name of the advertiser as long as 6 months after receiving it (Screiber & Associates)
- Giving business gifts is an effective way to increase customer perceptions of product attributes. Business gifts many times can produce a "halo effect" and open the door for salespeople. (Arizona State University)

Patrick's has its own in-house creative, design and manufacturing facilities. We can produce cost effective products to support the marketing objective. We can produce corporate catalogues to enhance the merchandise range of promotional products.

We also research the latest trends through our membership of marketing and promotional product Associations in the United States of America, Europe and Australia.

Patrick's researches, where appropriate, the programs it creates to measure the effectiveness of the executed strategies.

Patrick's has established itself as the progressive and leading organisation in its field. As one of Australia's 100 oldest organisations Patrick's can provide cost effective solutions to your marketing and promotional objectives.
